

Recruit Top Talent at the MIT Mechanical Engineering Career Expo!

MIT Mechanical Engineering (MechE) is home to over 1000 undergraduate and graduate students. We're training the next generation of mechanical engineers to design, innovate, and solve some of the greatest problems facing our world today.

The goal of the MIT MechE Career Expo is to connect you with ambitious, creative, technically savvy students who are seeking summer internships and full-time positions. Our students' interests and degree experiences include design, robotics, medical devices, manufacturing, energy systems, and much more – along with the integration of AI and physical systems that is defining the frontiers of technology.
